PROFILE

My freelancing experience has brought me into contact with a wide variety of clients and helped me learn an invaluable and broad set of skills, both functional and conceptual. I've since come to the logical next step in the evolution: UX design. Years of designing for print, web, & mobile and an inborn sensitivity and empathy have taught me to get outside myself to understand problems and create intuitive experiences. I'm passionate about learning new things and discovering tools that are perfect for the job.
